

Luc Hendrickx

Luc Hendrickx is the Director of Congresses and Governance of the International Diabetes Federation (IDF), based in Brussels.

The political footprint of IDF enlarged substantially following the passing of the United Nations Resolution on diabetes. This led to an exponential increase of activities, including the in-sourcing of the World Diabetes Congress, which now attracts around 12000 participants. Luc's role is to develop the strategic direction of the congress, expand the diabetes congress portfolio, and manage the governance transition of the federation.

Before joining IDF, he was in-house Conference Director of the Federation of European Cancer Societies, managing ECCO—the European Cancer Congress.

Luc is the Past-President of the Associations & Conference Forum (AC Forum), a networking platform of leading international and European healthcare associations that organise the majority of their congress activities in-house.

He is international advisor to the Board of the Montreal Tourism and Convention Bureau.
